General Notes: DISCUSSION REGARDING THE IDENTITY OF THEO'S PARENTS [revised May 7, 2024]:

Theodore Hoffmann
He was president of the Steuben Society of America, 1934 -1952 (official portrait)

Descendants of Heinrich August Ludewig EBBIGHAUSEN

Our subject was born out of wedlock October 1, 1883, and at the age of five months was removed to the United States and given the name Theodore Henry Hoffmann. He was raised by Ludwig and Dorothea Hoffmann [referred to in his little red reminder book [Reminder Book] as "grandpa" and "grandma"]. His German birth name was: Ludwig Theodor Heinrich Andreas Lankenau.

A Hamburg, Germany, birth registration record was located on Ancestry.com for; Ludwig Theodor Heinrich Andreas Lankenau [birth date and birth place matched that of subject]. Mother's name on record was; Luise Johanna Drescher Lankenau [her Hamburg Death record contained a birth date that matched birth date stated in the Reminder Book and birth place; Osterholz, Germany. She would have been age twenty-two when Theo was born. Father's name was not stated. Luise's mother was Margaretha Dorothea Lankenau, same as listed in the Reminder Book as "Grandma Doris," [her Baptism record was located showing same birth date and birth location Osterholz, same as Luise's birth location]. The Baptism record also stated parents; Heinrich and Metta Lankenau [her NYC death registration record listed father; "Heinrich" and mother; Rebecca "(English for Metta)] . Grandma Doris" would have been age twenty-two when Luise was born in 1861 and is our subjects biological grandmother.

Regarding the identity of Theo's birth parents. His Bronx Marriage certificate #1775 dated 16 December 1905 stated father's name Ludwig [last name not stated], mother's name, Louise Ebbighausen. This writer could not locate any verification records for last name "Hoffmann" therefore was either fictitious or was the last name of here-to-fore unidentified biological father.

Regarding "Grandpa" [Ludwig Hoffmann]. A Birth / Baptism record was located stating his true birth name was Ludewig Ebbighausen [German Lutheran Baptisms record located on Ancestry.com. Subject name "Ludewig Ebbighausen," date of birth 24 September 1839, Father: Heinrich August Ludewig Ebbighausen, Mother: Wilhelmine Ebbighausen]. Birth date same as listed in Reminder Book and first names same as listed on subject's 1909 Bronx #153 Death Certificate. Mother's scribbled last name was not decipherable except last letters ...fezer [verified as "Schwertfeger." Additional evidence located on Ancestry.com was a ship's manifest listing a Ludwig Ebbighausen, age 36 [estimated birth year 1839] departing Hamburg, Germany, 23 November 1875, destination New York City. Manifest stated profession "Musiker" (Musician). Grandpa Hoffmann's stated occupation on 1900 U. S. census was, " Music Teacher." To summarize; Grandpa Hoffmann [AKA: Ebbighausen] was the older brother of Carl Heinrich August Ebbighausen father of Theo's wife, Mathilde Ebbighausen. Grandpa probably assumed the last name "Hoffmann" about the time Theo came to the United States in 1884 as a matter of convenience and to establish a pedigree. He stated on his December 1905 Marriage Registration father's name; Ludwig [last name not stated on record] and mother's name; Louise Ebbighausen. We know his biological mother's birth name was Lankenau and that our subject was born when she was age twenty-two.

DISCUSSION REGARDING THEO AS NATIONAL CHAIRMAN OF THE STEUBEN SOCIETY OF AMERICA [revised May 7, 2024]: Theo was well-known in the German American community as National Chairman of the Steuben Society of America. He was also a member of several charitable and social organizations in New York City. The rise of Fascism in Germany during the nineteen-thirties tested the loyalties of the German American community. Steuben Society members tended to be older naturalized American citizens. While sympathetic to German grievances the Steuben Society advocated neutrality. Members of rival Fascist sympathizing organizations drew support from younger Germans who were not American citizens. One such group, "Friends of the New Germany" had recently taken over control of the "United German Societies" that sponsored annual German-day activities.

The rivalry was manifest during the December 1933 annual New York City German-day celebration which was described in a newspaper article as; "an enthusiastic celebration of German Day at the Madison Square Garden before a packed house of more than 20,000 persons". Several prominent Jews were manhandled and ejected from the meeting, speakers were booed and as the German ambassador arose to speak, "the audience accorded him a tremendous Nazi ovation. "Heil" resounded throughout the large main hall of the Garden, as Luther stood at the rostrum and rendered the Nazi salute. The tumult had scarcely died down, when a woman fifty feet from the rostrum screamed, "Down with Hitler, down with Hitler!" The cry was taken up in all parts of the Garden, as the surprised audience countered with "Heil Hitler!" Chairman Wieboldt rushed to the microphone and pleaded, "Please, please, give Dr. Luther a chance to speak."

Police rushed to various parts of the Garden and escorted shouting men and women from their seats out of the hall. The band struck up "Deutschland Uber Alles," and the audience joined in singing it."

A newspaper article dated 13 Mar 1934, stated: "Is Theo. Hoffmann Jewish? Steuben Head Won't Answer" stated that Hoffmann refused to deny or confirm reports that he is partly Jewish." The allegation was that he was the son of a Jewish mother and consequently tried to be more German than real 'Aryans' and that this fact is known to many members of the Steuben Society members. Theo denied the Jewish allegation and demanded proof. The allegation, however, cannot be totally ignored. Altona, Germany, at the time of Theo's birth was a major center of Ashkenazic Jewish life and scholarship attracting hundreds of students. This writer's DNA profile [Theo's grandson] does not contain markers to indicate Jewish ancestry, evidence of a Jewish parent is not true.

Theo traveled to Germany in 1934. A Google search located: "Documents on German Foreign Policy: 1918-1945 - Page 1115": On October 31, the Führer and Chancellor received the Head of the Steuben Society of American, Mr. Theo H. Hoffmann.

Mr. Hoffmann informed the Führer and Chancellor of the aims and task of the Steuben Society and expressed severe criticism of the behaviour of the Association of "Friends of the New Germany" in America. The local heads of this Association were, for the greater part, young Germans who were not American citizens and who therefore ran the risk of being deported from America because of their political activities. It was also entirely possible that the American government would be compelled to prohibit and dissolve the Association of "Friends of the New Germany." Such a measure would, of course, provide the enemies of Germany in America with new material for agitation against Germany...

Theo went on to tell the Fuhrer that "German Consuls in the United States had accepted invitations to functions of the "Friends of New Germany" and had thus indicated that they were lending this Association moral support." The Fuhrer replied that "he had given strict instructions that National Socialists were in all circumstances to refrain from political activities in the country which was their host" and that the "Friends of the New Germany" were not directed by the German Government.

By 1938 German American public opinion had turned against the Nazi agitators. The celebration of German Day in Madison Square Garden last night [October 2, 1938] became the occasion for an open break between Nazi disciples and those who consider themselves more Americanized Germans in this country. According to announcements from the platform, the break took the German Organizers by surprise after they recently purged the celebration of the Nazi forces led by Fritz Kuhn and his German-American Bund... Several scheduled prominent speakers dropped-out (the German Ambassador was too busy). Theo was equally emphatic in disapproval of what he called "any exhibition of any foreign politics on our shores..." This was a major change from prior years' conferences. Kuhn and his German-American Bund dominated the 1936 conference and in 1937 did not speak but was allowed to parade his uniformed storm troopers.

He was employed as a member of a survey party for the Canadian National Railway between 9 Apr 1919 and 9 Sep 1919 in Melfort, , Saskatchewan, Canada. He arrived in northern Saskatchewan by train along with other members of the survey party. He and his mother invested almost all the money they had to purchase a canvas sleeping bag and a woolen blanket.

He worked at a Trust Company beginning about Oct 1919 and 1921 at Winnipeg. He was paid $75 per month which was increased to $90.00. He had the misfortune of cashing two checks for a customer in the amount of $375.00 which bounced. His future didn't look bright because he was required to repay the debt out of his pay. While getting a haircut in Winnipeg, the barber who he previously knew in Elgin suggested he become a doctor and according to his autobiography decided then and there in the barber's chair to be a doctor.

He said the plan was to take a course in normal school and become a teacher and then teach school and go to medical college on alternate years. He enrolled in a fifteen-week course teaching people to be country school third grade teachers. The course began September 1921 and ended December 1921. After teaching in two different country schools, he was back in Winnipeg the following August. On his first day home he met a MacLeans magazine salesman who had just sold a six-month subscription to his mother for one dollar. They had a discussion and became convinced selling subscriptions was a better way to earn money. He discontinued teaching school and put himself through pre-med and medical college selling subscriptions the next six summers for three dollars a year or five dollars for two years.

He graduated from University of Manitoba Medical College on 15 May 1929 in Winnipeg, , Manitoba, Canada. On the First of June at the graduation exercises at the old Walker Theater Dr. Little was handed his diploma making him a qualified medical doctor. A degree from Manitoba Medical College required seven years of study, two in pre-med at the University of Manitoba, four years at the Medical College and the final year as an intern. Pre-med tuition was $50 per year and medical school tuition was $100 per year. He began at the University of Manitoba in 1922 and in the fall

LITTLE, HENRY OWEN: 26; Record: 1st yr.; 2nd yr., pass. Spent four years at other things, banking, survey parties, Loan Co. etc. Was not attracted to Medicine by financial considerations. Works his way along; sells magazines in summer (Father is a preacher, brother is a banker and helps him some). Thinks he spent too much time in Latin in premed. Zoology most useful. Botany is a biological subject. Has not found Medicine too difficult, studies 2-3 hours a night, 4-5 hrs (nights?) a week. Spends a lot of time in church work (Young Church). Reads McLean's Magazine and the Bible. Thinks the Fundamentalists are hair-brained and all at sea. Is attracted by Pediatrics and General Surgery. A good deal of time is wasted in didactic lectures because there is no practical application of the knowledge thus acquired. Would like to have opportunities of following patients through the whole course of their illness. If it were not for financial handicaps would spend his time in research - say in T.B. After graduation he accepted an appointment as Resident Intern in Deerlodge Military Hospital, Winnipeg, and had a few private patients.

After six months there was not much income so he bought a practice in the village of Manitou, a prosperous village a few miles from the border of North Dakota. The practice was slow and he recalled that the better part of his income was derived from selling liquor prescriptions.

While at Deerlodge, with the help of his brother and sister, they purchased a two-door 1929 Ford Model A automobile, however in Manitou once winter had set in, he did country travel by hiring a team of horses and sleigh from the local livery stable.

His mother had sent him a "Doctor Wanted" newspaper clipping April 1930 for a "municipality" doctor, Wishart, Emerald Township #277, Saskatchewan. He replied and accepted a job one hundred miles north of Regina. Wishart was then a small village founded in 1928. There was no place to practice medicine when he arrived but there was no great need for a fully equipped doctor's office since most of his work was making house calls around the 325 square mile municipality. He did, however, have a small, borrowed office at a grain elevator which was not very convenient, no running water and only a chair and table for furniture. His salary was $375.00 a month and earned a little extra by treating patients outside the municipality and selling pills, tonics, and cod liver oil.

Later the village counselors arranged to have an old meeting house moved to a lot on the main street and to sell him the lot and two adjacent fifty foot lots. It was a rough building about eighty feet square with a potbellied stove. The building did not lend itself very well to being a doctor's office so he had a house-office combination constructed to the rear and used the meeting house as a waiting room. During the next six years he tended to the medical needs of the municipality. He delivered about seven hundred babies as during that time the birth rate was so high that half of the population was under the age of fifteen. He was required to periodically examine over two thousand children and keep them vaccinated. During a cold spell one winter a case of smallpox occurred in the next municipality requiring a rush job getting all the children and others vaccinated. One afternoon he visited a two room country school with 120 students. Two seventh grade girls swabbed arms with alcohol while he vaccinated. He had to work fast because his teamster had to keep the horses moving in the forty below zero weather (there was no barn). He finished the job in one hour.

Social life was limited but he did keep the company of a pretty doctor's daughter named Marjorie who lived in a village about forty miles away. They met in December 1930. She was seventeen and played the piano and they went steady for about five years. There was not much to do; they went to country dances, sang a few songs at her home, drove around the country, etc. In December 1940 he visited her in Vancouver.

He would send money home to Winnipeg to support his mother and brother Robert who was attending Manitoba Medical College. When Robert graduated June, 1936, the need to send money decreased. Desiring to get away from the edge of civilization, he resigned his position at Wishart and returned to Winnipeg with the intent of starting a practice there without much success. For three months however, he was a private intern at the Winnipeg General Hospital. On September 15, 1936, he left Winnipeg for England to study ophthalmology. He went back to Wishart in 1978 for the town's centennial celebration and was greeted as a "special guest".

At the 1931 Census of Canada he was age 30, employed as a municipal doctor, $5000 annual income, enumerated at the hamlet of Wishart, Saskatchewan. Also enumerated at residence [probably as visitors] were his mother, Emily Marie Little, age 60 and brother Robert Herriot Little, age 27, a Manitoba college student on vacation.

At age 35, accompanied by his mother, he sailed to England from Montreal on the ship Dutchess of York and arrived 26 Sep 1936 at the Port of Liverpool, proposed address in the UK; 11 Ormiston Rd., New Brighton. He began a six-month course in ophthalmology at Moorfields Hospital, London. In May 1937 he became a house surgeon at the Royal Westminster Eye Hospital for 18 months ending October 1938 and then for six weeks was temporary chief ophthalmologist to the British army. While in England he also visited relatives in Ireland. He and mother returned to the United States on the Empress of Britain arriving 22 Dec 1938 at the Port of New York.

He worked as an Ophthalmologist between 1939 and 1945 at New York City. He had agreed to take a position with the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital located at 140 East 54th Street. Before starting however, he and his mother returned to Winnipeg to see about things he had left in storage and visit sister, Dora. Upon return to New York City he had to take a lengthy New York Medical Board exam to get licensed. It also took nine months of bureaucracy to establish his American citizenship even though he was born in California. He was on the surgical staff of the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital and also on the staff of St Luke's Hospital. His starting pay was $300 per month. In December, 1940, he went to Vancouver, British Columbia, for ten days to visit an old girlfriend without telling the chief surgeon and was fired soon after his return. He then set up his own practice in the same building.

He resided at 98-120 Queens Blvd, Forest Hills between 1940 and 1942 at New York, Queens, New York. At the 1940 census he was age 38 and listed as head of household, renting at $85/month. Also at residence were mother Emily (age 70) and brother Robert (age 36).

He was a Deacon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. The minister was John Sutherland Bonnell (known as "Sid"), a Canadian, who previously preached at Winnipeg. Rev Bonnell had built up the church to become one of the wealthiest Presbyterian churches in the world. Dr. Bonnell was born 1893 on Prince Edwards Island, Canada, died 1992 aged 99 at Roseburg, Oregon. Enlisted in Canadian Army in World War One, wounded twice in Europe, ordained in 1922. Gained a national reputation in his 26 years (1935 - 1962) as Pastor, Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, sometimes called the "cathedral of Presbyterianism. He was a moderate theologically and an ardent supporter of the Rev. Billy Graham's first New York "crusade" in 1957. President of the New York Theological Seminary 1966 - 1969.

He was a member of the "Canadian Society" where met interesting people.

Beginning in 1943 he was spending one or two days a week in Hudson, New York, helping his brother Robert who had recently taken over a medical practice. He had rented an apartment at 308 E. 79th Street in October, 1944. In the spring of March, 1945, he gave up his New York City practice and moved to Hudson to join his brother where he conducted a successful thirty-year medical practice in Ophthalmology located at 455 Warren Street.

After his marriage to Jane Hoffmann and honeymoon, he rented an apartment for several months in June 1944 in a house located on Route 9H at Claverack, New York, about three miles from Hudson. They returned to New York City December 1944 driving the Taconic Parkway, a day after a major snow storm, where their first child was born. Rather than immediately returning to Columbia County he sublet an apartment at Gramacy Park and 19th Street. In March 1945 he rented a brick cottage at Greenport just outside Hudson.

He had a residence between Mar 1947 and Dec 1960 at Claverack, Columbia, New York. He resided at "The Gables" between 7 Dec 1960 and 1978 at Kinderhook, Columbia, New York. "The Gables" is a Dutch colonial house which was heavily renovated and enlarged in 1928. The original house was built in 1729 by an early settler to the area named Van Allen on land purchased from the local Native Americans. A brother built a similar house one mile east on the other side of Kinderhook Creek which has been restored to its original condition and presently a National Historic landmark.

He moved back to Hudson in 1978 to a rented apartment at 356 Union Street, near his office where he lived alone. In 1980 he purchased an old [1836] Greek revival house on upper [738] Warren Street. The first floor was converted to an office plus a one room studio apartment where he lived. Various family members lived in the second floor apartment, most of the time his daughter Elizabeth and her son Seth. By 1980 his medical practice had declined and eventually lost his medical license by which time he had only a few patients.

Death Notes: Obituary - Union Springs Herald, Union Springs, Alabama, 3 Sep 1986: Bullock Teenager Killed in Wreck // A host of friends and family gathered at Oak Hill Cemetery in Union springs Monday morning for graveside services in tribute to Norma Davison Hoffmann who was killed in an automobile accident early Saturday morning in Montgomery.

Norma was one of the beloved triplets born on May 23, 1970, to Martha Bristow Hoffmann and the late Ted Hoffmann of Fitzpatrick. Attorney Hoffmann served as district judge in Bullock County before he was stricken with a terminal illness.

The 16 year old Norma is survived by her triplet sisters, Martha and Susannah. She is also survived by an older sister, Paige Hoffmann, an Auburn University student; a brother, John Bristow Hoffmann, a Dallas Theological Seminary student who will receive his Master's degree in May of 1987; her mother, Martha Hoffmann Sanders; her stepfather, Dr. James Glen Sanders; a step-sister, Robin Sanders; a step-brother, Trey Sanders; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen B. Hoffmann of McLean, Virginia; one great aunt, Mrs. W. H. Bickerstaff of Fitzpatrick; and one uncle, Mr. Ludwig C. Hoffmann III of Montgomery.

Norma was the granddaughter of the late J.T. Bristow of Fitzpatrick and the late Norma Smith Bristow Salter, a prominent Alabama educator.

The 16 year old triplets were very close and were together at a party shortly before the accident. Upon leaving the party, Martha Hoffmann, Norma's look-alike, was persuaded to ride in another car which was following the car driven by Norma who was taking her friend Laura Grice to her home in Montgomery. The head-on collision was with a speeding pick-up truck driven by Thomas Clardy, 38, who was also killed instantly. Martha was among the first to reach her sister, followed soon after by Susannah, who was in another car. Norma's friend Laura is reported in stable condition at St. Margaret's Hospital.

Graveside services were conducted by Rev. Asbury Wolfe, Jr., pastor of the First United Methodist

Descendants of Heinrich August Ludewig EBBIGHAUSEN

Church in Union Springs. After reading appropriate Scriptures, he commented on the fact that the four Hoffmann sisters and their parents were together in his congregation at church on the Sunday preceding the accident.

A personal eulogy was given by Norma's brother, John Bristow Hoffmann, who spoke lovingly of his recollections of family gathering, the closeness of family relationships, and the joyful spirit of Norma who always wore a radiant smile. He spoke with assurance of his sister's salvation and commitment to Christ, saying there are two truths his sister would want to emphasize at her memorial service. One of these would be her conviction that alcohol mixed with speeding is a killer. The second truth is Norma's certainty of salvation through Jesus Christ and the assurances he had of resurrection to life eternal. The unusually large turnout at the memorial service, many of them teen-agers, was touching evidence of Norma Hoffmann's own testimony of a life of caring for others. The service was also a tribute to a loving family relationship.

As the three remaining sisters and their mother scanned newspapers and scrapbooks, it became obvious that Norma Hoffmann in her 16 years had established herself as a person of achievement - in academics, sports, leadership, music, beauty, and extra-curricular activities.

Norma's achievements from junior high to the 11th grade, which she was entering this fall at Jeff Davis in Montgomery, are well documented. Among these accomplishments are the following: While a student at Bullock Memorial, she was a junior high cheerleader in grades eight and nine. She was chosen class beauty in both of those grades and was secretary of the 9th grade class. She played trumpet with the BMS Band, was band librarian, and voted most valuable player. She was named Junior High Best Personality, Junior High Best All-Around, and Junior High Top Ten. Also interested in sports, she served as bat girl for the baseball team, and she had the highest percentage of free throws in basketball.

During her 10th grade year at Trinity Presbyterian School in Montgomery, Norma continued her record achievements. She was a member of the National Honor Society and was among the 50 percent of that group chosen to be in the Trinity Honor Society. She played in the school band and was a member of the Spanish Club and the 4-H Club.

Both Norma and Martha were selected to represent Trinity as honored members of the Society of Distinguished American High School students. This honor comes to those who achieve academic excellence, participate in civic affairs, and display leadership in extra-curricular activities. On July 28 through August 2, 1986, Norma had attended the youth legislative retreat at Blue Ridge Assembly sponsored by the YMCA.

Norma loved outdoor activities and rode horses regularly, especially in the Fitzpatrick Fox Hunts. Many people attending the funeral observed that the crowd who gathered at Oak Hill Cemetery Monday Morning at 11:00 was the largest turn-out they could remember at graveside services in Union Springs, another testimony to the many lives touched by Norma Davison Hoffmann in the short span of her 16 years.

43. Thomas Emmet LITTLE [11] (Jane Valeria HOFFMANN⁴, Mathilde "Tilly" Melosine EBBIGHAUSEN³, Carl Heinrich August², Heinrich August Ludewig¹) was born on 20 Mar 1949 in Hudson, Columbia, New York, died on 5 Aug 2010 in Badakhshan Province, Afghanistan, at age 61, and was buried on 21 Aug 2010 in Kabul, , , Afghanistan.

Death Notes: Tom was leading a team of six Americans, two Afghans, one German and a Briton, when slain by the Taliban in the northern province of Badakhshan, Afghanistan. The team was attacked while returning to Kabul after a two-week mission providing eye and other health care in remote villages in the Parun valley of Nuristan province about 160 miles (260 kilometers) north of Kabul. The bullet-riddled bodies were found near three four-wheeled drive vehicles in a wooded area just off the main road through a narrow valley in the Kuran Wa Munjan district of Badakhshan.

Burial Notes: He was buried at The British Cemetery, Kabul, Afghanistan.

General Notes: Since about 1984, Tom and his wife Libby have spent most of his time in Afghanistan but maintained a permanent residence at Delmar, Albany County, New York. Their three daughters were educated at the Woodstock School, India.

From his Memorial Service 9 Oct 2010 at the Loudonville Community Church, Loudonville, New York: Tom little lived in Afghanistan. It was his and Libby's home for thirty-three years. They raised their three daughters there. They lived there, not here. They stayed there, under every political regime, from the communist, through the civil war, through the Taliban, through the current situation.

Tom came from a small, peaceful town in update New York. He had a good education and every opportunity available to Americans, but he chose to live and work in Afghanistan. He honed his professional skills and applied them to the Afghan situation. He had a ridiculously low salary for an American optometrist, but he still chose to live in Afghanistan. He literally helped the blind to see, in a place with little eye care. He set up hospitals, clinics, eye camps, and helped to train eye care staff, from custodians to surgeons. He did this for and with the Afghan people, in cities and villages.

Tom was a Christian. His love for and service to the Afghan people came from his love for and serviced to God. God had called him to give his life away in service to others. Tom's idea of how to live life came from the example of Christ. Tom was not there to convert or impose his faith on Afghans, but to be their friend. His faith was lived out in their midst. If some were attracted to his faith, who could blame them?

We should not make Tom to be more than he was. He would be the first to say he was a flawed human being. However, he knew he was a forgiven man and that enabled him to live at peace, with God and those around him. The proof of his admirable character and extraordinary meaningful live is found in what he did, especially where he chose to live, and where he died.

As for the way he died, he would echo Jesus' words: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." As for when he died, it was a tragic loss for Afghanistan, and a terrible shock to his family, friends and colleagues. As for where he died, Tom Little lived, died, and his body was buried in Afghanistan. He probably would not have wanted it any other way.

"And I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Blessed are the dead who from now on die in the Lord. Yes, says the Spirit, They will rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them." Revelations 14:15.

In Feb 2011, Barack Obama, President, United States, awarded the Medal of Freedom, the highest civilian recognition a person can receive for their contributions to the nation's security or national interest, to Tom Little (posthumously) and 13 others.

Tom Little, or Mr. Tom as he is called by the Afghans who work under him, oversees NOOR's three 40- to 45- bed eye hospitals, one in each of the country's three major cities of Kabul, Heart, and Mazar-i-Sharif, as well as a number of smaller 8- to 10-bed facilities in the smaller cities of Khost, Nilli and Talaqon. The program also provides support and pays the doctors and technicians at the Ministry of Health's main hospital in Kabul, an 80-bed facility. NOOR operates roughly a dozen eye camps throughout the country each year, as well as a number of day clinics just outside of the cities containing the major hospitals. All told, NOOR facilities saw 234,570 outpatients in 2003, and operated on more than 14,000.
